

NOW UP TO JURY TO SOLVE PROBLEM OF GUILT OR INNOCENCE OF RALPH ARDARY ACCUSED OF KILLING COUSIN

ATTORNEY A. H. WOODWARD MAKES STRONG PLEA IN DEFENSE WHILE STATE DEMANDS FIRST DEGREE

VERDICT TOMORROW IS POSSIBLE

The Ardary murder case is slowly nearing the end. The attorneys interested made a very hard fight and this fact in itself added to the length of the trial, as no point was overlooked and objection after objection to the testimony of both sides was offered.

The prosecution took no chances and allowed nothing objectionable to get to the jury. When the question of the attorneys for the defense got close to the edge an offer at "side bar" was asked for and the offer made out of the hearing of the jury and if not admissible the evidence was not allowed or the question even to be asked.

The testimony was ended at 11:45, the afternoon session being devoted to the pleas of the attorneys and the Judge's charge.

The court room habitues are generally of the opinion that the defendant will be freed, basing that opinion largely on the defendant's story of the shooting, corroborated by the testimony of his sister Cora, who said she heard the final shot in the barn and almost on the instant saw Ralph run through the gate into the yard.

On the other hand there is considerable damaging circumstantial evidence against the accused.

Promptly at 1:30 Attorney A. H. Woodward took the floor to address the jury for the defense and did not close his plea until late in the afternoon. Immediately following him, District Attorney Arnold summed up the evidence produced by the Commonwealth and asked at the hands of the jury a verdict of first degree murder. It is expected that the Judge will not charge the jury before very late this evening. In this event a verdict may be expected sometime tomorrow but many believe that the jury will be unable to agree before Monday.

The Testimony

Following the noon recess yesterday the cross examination of Ralph Ardary was resumed. In answer to Mr. Miller's questions he said he had always been of a nervous temperament and became more nervous after his father's death and attributed his condition to the shock due to finding his father shot, and also said he had never stayed in the house without having someone to stay with him and Lawrence stayed with him until his brother George came. The Attorney asked him if he and Lawrence had discussed his father's killing and he said they had. He was asked if he had ever charged Lawrence with the killing and he said he never had, and when asked if Lawrence had ever argued him with the crime also replied in the negative. He was questioned regarding George's revolver and said on a Saturday night when George was away he had taken the revolver and examined it, took the shells therefrom and snapped it several times before reloading and replacing it in the bureau. Said he had always been afraid to go to the attic alone even before his father's death and had never been up alone since his father's death until he went up after asking Lawrence to go along. He stuck closely to his story as to the barrel episode and seeing Lawrence Ardary coming out of his room.

In accounting for leaving his gloves in the barn he said the gloves were too large for him anyhow and he took them off because they were too unhandy to work with while taking the burrs off the hack top rod. He said Lawrence came up to him with his left hand behind him and started to shoot with his right hand. He threw up his left hand and then grappled with Lawrence and threw him down. Mr. Miller asked him how he caught him and the witness invited him to come forward and he would show him. The Attorney came forward and the witness demonstrated to the jury how he took hold of Lawrence. He denied having told Orvis Smith that he was just passing Pearl, the horse, when he heard the third shot fired. Also denied about every other statement following the shooting attributed to him by Smith in his testimony. Also denied telling in the presence of W. J. Leavy and Sheriff Gorman that the barrel jammed in the stairway when he called

Lawrence to come up and help him. He put on his hat and stooped over to demonstrate the position he was in when shot and in placing it on his head placed the bow on the right side and was challenged by Mr. Miller as to why he did so, that placing to rear of the hat in front. This is the way the hat would have had to be worn at the time of the shooting, according to the location of the bullet hole in it. He told of reading the story regarding the barrel sticking in the stairway in The Progress on the Thursday following the shooting, a short time before he gave his statement to the District Attorney in which he said the barrel did not stick. The examination of the accused ended at 2:55. He maintained a clear head through the cross examination and made a very good witness for himself.

Di S. J. Waterworth was next called and testified to the wound in Ralph Ardary's arm and the removal of the bullet therefrom. He said the bullet entered about one and one-half inches below the crease of the elbow and passed through the radius one of the bones of the forearm, the bullet splitting when it struck the bone. The operation took fifteen minutes.

Sister Testifies

Cora Ardary, sister of Ralph Ardary, testified that her father, George W. Ardary, herself and Ralph Ardary made up the family at home until Feb. 9th when her father was killed. Lawrence Ardary stayed at the house at night from this time until March 5th until her brother George came to live there March 5th. Lawrence Ardary also came to the house every day, sometimes several times.

She saw Lawrence when he came over at about 1 o'clock the day of the shooting. She went up in the attic to get some onions and Ralph went along to look for the barrel. Lawrence came over before she had the dinner dishes off the table and shortly after he came Ralph and he started up stairs. She also saw them come down but did not recall which one came down first. After they had gone out of the house she heard a noise like the colt kicking when she heard the last sound she jumped to the window and as she got there she saw Ralph coming through the gate and came running to the house holding ing his arm and she went to the kitchen door and let him in. He was running and she thought the colt had kicked him. When Ralph got inside he exclaimed "My God, Cora, Lawrence tried to kill me." The sleeve of his jacket was smoking. She telephoned for Orvis Smith, a neighbor, Dr. King of Curwensville, and "Duckett" Bois, another neighbor. She said Ralph had his hat on the same way he wore it in the court room demonstration. She recalled the position of the hat because the hole in it and the sleeve were on the same side. She also corroborated Ralph's story regarding the revolver in George's room, etc., and said it was the first time a revolver had been kept in the house. Didn't hear Ralph make statements to Orvis Smith the latter testified he had. Never heard Ralph say the barrel had stuck in the stairs and never heard Ralph say to Orvis Smith that he feared Lawrence had shot himself in the barn. She was asked concerning a conversation she had with the District Attorney regarding her father's death on the presence of Ralph, Alonzo Ardary and Judge Bell in which he asked if the gun had been handled after the shooting. She then told a family group a home about what the Judge said. Lawrence Ardary was present at the time this statement was made.

District Attorney Arnold then took the witness on cross examination. The witness was made the target for a lot of rapid fire questions and when asked concerning some description between the story now and that told at the Corner's inquest said she was unable to recall some of the answers made then.

George Ardary, brother of Ralph, was then sworn. He told of going home March 5th. Did not see Lawrence around much after he got there, except about fifteen minutes one day. He also tried to buy the colt on twenty different occasions. He identified the revolver with which the shooting was done as his gun. Took it to George Ardary home March 6th. Lawrence saw the revolver that night when he took it out of his hand bag. He said Lawrence had also seen this gun five or six years before when he borrowed it for ten days or two weeks. The trigger spring was weak. Sometimes it could be operated fast and sometimes it could not. He heard Cora make the statement of Judge Bell in the presence of Lawrence.

On cross examination he was given the revolver and demonstrated that it could not be fired a second time until the trigger had been pushed forward after the first shot. He denied having told Sheriff Gorman on the day of the inquest that the revolver would never operate better or differently.

Curtis Reed, a neighbor of the Ardary's testified that he was notified of the shooting and in company with

THE MAKADO HAS HIS BACK UP AT CLEARFIELD

National Calamity Might Be Result Of Horrible Insults Of Local Talent Players

THEY'LL ALL SOON BE MISSED

AN OFFERTORY

International complications "have rizz", our beloved country has been charged by Japan with "Mayhem" "aggravated insult" and "intent to defraud." When Stauffer, who was disguised as the Mikado, came on the stage a shudder went over the audience which was conveyed by wireless waves to the Kaiser's propagandists. With devilish cunning they at once got busy and sent a radio photo of the whole darn show to the Mikado of Japan, and he is mad clean through, the latest cable says that he is raging up and down the Palace swearing by the fourteen suns of Nippon that he will have vengeance. He has the whole outfit "on the list" All the nobles, the chief high, the clown prince, the Lord Executioner, and the caricature of himself which riled his dander "they will soon be missed" "they'll soon be missed" and as for that man that stood behind the scenes and made the proud Mikado of Japan a joke for the "nations to laugh" Well the secret agents will attend to him and "boiled oil" will be no joke. However a later cable says that there are "mitigating" circumstances. When the gaze of the Mighty Nippon is on the features of Stauffer his expression is horrible. When it travels from Stauffer to Ban he almost faints and when he looks at J. Fred and Howell he turns blue around the eyes. Alfred makes him caress the sword which he inherited from a thousand ancestors, but when he looks on the left side of the radio photo and sees all those Japanese ladies—Well the old Geezer seems to warm up. He was heard to say that 3 fingers of rice brandy in a bath tub would hardly faze him—but those ladies made life look like one long "Till Willow Song".

Our government is making strenuous efforts in a "Pielowickian" scene to smooth the whole thing over and has left it all up to Burleson who will probably get the Mikado "up in the air" and raise the cable rates. It is necessary in order to establish friendly diplomatic relations, the ladies of the cast will be sent to Japan to appear before the ruler of a thousand suns and if the old Gink don't thaw out, J. Fred will be sent over to gas him. Anyhow "hats off" to the whole bunch, they have added to the Joy of Life and contributed to the "Gaiety of Nations".

LABOR WEDGE MAY SECURE HUN ENTRY INTO THE LEAGUE

By LOWELL MELLETT

(United Press Staff Correspondent) PARIS, May 17.—German inclusion in the League of Nations appeared near today when it became known that Allied leaders were considering her membership in the international labor bureau. The peace treaty specifically provides that members of the bureau should be members in the League or become members later. Although Germany probably will not be taken into the bureau immediately because of a hostile element in certain Allied countries it is believed in many quarters certain she will be included in the bureau and the league very soon. When premier Clemenceau gave the reply to the German labor note Wednesday the latter asked that it be held up until the committee of Allied labor experts could consider "another question". It was too late to prevent publication, however. Then when the committee met again the question to be discussed was whether the Germans should be taken into the bureau at this time. For the reason given it was decided to be unfeasible but it was decided to submit the finding, cached at the labor council in Washington in October to the Ger-

N. C. 4 "JINX BOAT" FIRST TO LAND IN THE AZORES GROUP

PUNTAPELAGADA, AZORES, May 17.—The seaplane NC-4 has landed at Horta on the Island of Fayal of the Azores group. The plane landed at 9:20 A. M. New York time. Horta is 160 miles from the American base here.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—An American seaplane, the NC-4, "jinx boat" of Commander Towers' trans-oceanic flying fleet, established a world record in sea flying today. When the word reached the Navy Department here that this now famous Nancy had reached Horta, in the Azores group, she had officially gone 2,200 miles on her journey from America to Europe.

In the flight last night from Trepassy to the Azores, a distance of 1,200 miles, she made a world record of 80 miles an hour. All Washington was thrilled with the NC-4 speed. She surpassed the most radiant expectations of naval officials. It is 150 miles from Ponta Delgada and 950 miles away in Lisbon, her continental goal. According to the naval message the NC-4 arrived at Horta at 9:20 and a fog is reported along the Azores, making the landing difficult and officials believe that this condition may have forced Commander Reed to land at this port instead of Ponta Delgada.

NC-3 Off Course

Latest information from the NC-3 was that she was off her course somewhere between station 17 and 18. This caused some uneasiness in view of the report of foggy weather conditions. The NC-1 passed station 19 at 6:14 a. m.

Starting at 6:08 p. m. yesterday all three of the American sea planes left the water in the outer bay for the 1,200 mile leap to the Azores, and within a few minutes disappeared below the horizon. NC-4 was the first to leave the water, followed closely by NC-1 and NC-3.

Commander Towers in NC-3 led the flight from the mooring buoys, because his plane was more difficult to lift from the water than the others. The starting arrangements made in advance were carried out literally. The three planes were alongside the mooring buoys at the northern end of the harbor. The center forward engine on each plane was started after the crews had climbed to their positions from the motor launches that sped from the side of the mine layer Aroostook.

Slowly the big planes were turned toward the narrows between the harbor and the outer bay of Trepassy. As they "taxied" past the cheering crews of the Aroostook and Prairie, the port and starboard engines were started; then the rear pushers went to work.

None of the three planes was driven fast as they skimmed through the water swerving frequently in the course to warm up their oil, an important matter.

Commander Towers directed NC-3 in wide curves to watch the progress of NC-1 and NC-4 following him and then headed into the face of the wind to attain maximum lifting power.

The white tail light flickering faintly and the dull red and green showed dimly at starboard and port of each plane.

The airmen all wore waterproof patented fabric suits drawn over their uniforms, with helmets to which telephone instruments were attached. The commanders in the cockpits are able to talk to all of the crew simultaneously or individually.

Neither life saving suits nor life belts were used, nor were any of the men's garments artificially heated. The suggestion that such precautions might be necessary in case of accident was smiled away with the reply of the commander that they did not intend to alight in mid-ocean nor anticipate any accident.

Even cranks were removed from the propellers as unnecessary, as the self starters were found to be perfect and any one or any two of the engines may be repaired in the air and started again by merely gliding against the wind.

man for their adherence. Such adherence will be easily obtained and is anticipated in view of Germany's own labor declaration. Thereafter Germany's admission to the bureau and league would be a matter of only a short time, it is expected.

GERMAN COUNTER PROPOSALS WILL ALL BE COMPLETED BY SATURDAY

By CARL D. GROAT

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN, May 16 (Delayed).—Counter proposals to the peace treaty probably will be completed Sunday it was learned from an authoritative source today. (Under regulations during the negotiations the Germans have to May 22, to discuss the terms.) Vast meetings are called for Saturday in the Reichstag and elsewhere to protest against the signing of the treaty. Some minor officials believe the terms will not be accented unless modified.

THE ITALIAN CONTROVERSY TO DATE

PARIS, May 17.—Italy has consented to the establishment of Fiume as a free port as well as relinquishing the claim to a portion of Isiprian and Dalmatian island, it was authoritatively learned this afternoon. A complete settlement has not yet been reached, however, as the Italians are still pressing their claim to certain Adriatic islands.

DANIELS ARRIVES HOME

NEW YORK, May 17.—Secretary of Navy Daniels arrived from France today on the transatlantic M. Vernon.

FAMOUS GERMAN FLAG OF METZ WILL BE EXHIBITED FREE THIS EVENING

The people of Clearfield should avail themselves of the opportunity to hear Commandant Howard Hinkle, the Hero of Metz, who speaks tonight in the High school auditorium under the auspices of the County Campaign committee for the Salvation Army Home Service fund, of which W. I. Betts is chairman.

Commandant Hinkle is a Salvation Army man who spent several months at the front and has an interesting and instructive story of his work and experiences, which is worthy of a capacity attendance. He will exhibit the German flag which he captured when the Germans evacuated Metz.

Hinkle is an exceptionally fine speaker and has done wonderful work throughout the state during the Victory Loan campaign.

No admission will be charged and everybody is cordially invited to attend.

Paris Editor Says Monroe Doctrine Conflicts With League of Nations

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS. (By Mail).—Stephen Lausanne, editor of "Le Matin" considers that it will be impossible ever to reconcile the Monroe Doctrine with the idea of a League of Nations. He said in "Le Matin":

"If things continue to go as they are going now Monroe will finish the biggest figure in the Peace Conference. At present he is the only figure before which everybody bows."

"Who was Monroe?" "Monroe was born in a carpenter shop and as time went on, engaged in most all the trades. He was colonel, lawyer, merchant, judge, ambassador, Secretary of State. Moreover, he did all of them well."

"In 1817 he became President of the United States."

"About that time a political tempest was blowing strong in the Old World. United under the name of the 'Holy Alliance,' the European governments talked of nothing less than the establishment of an absolutism, first in Europe, then in America."

"Monroe saw the storm-cloud coming his way and called his old friend, Thomas Jefferson, philosopher and friend of the French Philosopher d'Alembert and Condorcet, to a consultation. Whereupon Jefferson wrote:

"America, both North and South, has interests absolutely distinct from those of Europe and which belong to her alone. It is necessary, therefore to establish the principles of a system which shall keep these interests separate from those of the Old World. While the latter is trying to make itself the home of despotism our hemisphere is trying to make itself the land of Liberty."

"Monroe found the suggestion good, so on Dec. 2, 1823, in an address to Congress at Washington, he put the idea into slightly different words. He said:

Miss Helen Dowe of Denver has accepted a position as lookout in the United States forestry service and will spend the summer on Devil's Head mountain 40 miles southwest of Denver.

"Our politics has always consisted, and always should consist in taking no part in European wars. Also we have always obtained from intervention in the affairs of the colonies or dependencies of European nations and we shall continue so to do. But for those which have won their independence and obtained recognition as states, we can not but consider as an act hostile to the United States any intervention having for object the oppression or control in any manner whatever, of the destinies of these same."

"There it was! It was done! A new doctrine was born. "Now is this Doctrine of Monroe violated by the League of Nations project?"

"It seems to me monumentally paradoxical and a trifle infantile to pretend the contrary."

"When the Executive Council of the League of Nations fixes the reasonable limits of the armament of Persia when it shall demand information concerning the naval program of Brazil (Art. 8 of the Covenant); when it shall tell Argentina what shall be the measure of the contribution to the armed forces to protect the signatures of the social Covenant (Art. 16); when it shall demand the immediate registration of the treaty between the United States and Canada at the seat of the League, it will control, whether it wills or no, the destinies of America. And when the American States shall be obliged to take a hand in every war or menace of war in Europe (Art. 11), they will necessarily fall afoul of the fundamental principle laid down by Monroe which was that Americans should never take part in a European war."

"If the League takes in the world, then Europe must mix in the affairs of America; if only Europe is included, then America will violate of necessity her own doctrine by intervening in the affairs of Europe."

WHEN CONGRESS MEETS

BIG ISSUES BEFORE THE 66TH CONGRESS

- * Laws to curb Bolshevism
- * Legislation demanded by labor.
- * Decision as to the future of the merchant marine.
- * Legislation to aid business in getting back to a peace basis.
- * Legislation necessary for the enforcement of the prohibition law.
- * Legislation in regards to the future control of the railroad systems.
- * Settlement of compensation to be paid the telephone and telegraph companies for the use of their lines during the emergency.
- * Adoption of an army and a navy program on a peace basis, and appropriation of the money necessary to carry them into effect.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 17.—Promptly at noon on Monday the Senate and the House will be called to order for the first session of Congress since the ending of hostilities in the great war. It is to be an extra session of the Sixty-sixth Congress and the first session held by that body. Unlike the last Congress, which was devoted to matters relating to the prosecution of the war almost exclusively, the new Congress will be called upon to deal with the equally important problems of peace and reconstruction.

The length of the session is still a matter of guess work, with as many guesses as there are talkative statesmen in Washington. If the session should end before August it would be considered remarkable. If it should last until September or even October nobody would be surprised.

Next to the work of the new Congress as a whole, interest among observers in Washington turns largely to the development of individual members, and curiosity over the new faces which will be seen in both chambers. On the Democratic side in the Senate, Senator David I. Walsh, formerly governor of Massachusetts and the first Democrat to be elected to the United States senate from that state in two generations, will be a marked figure.

As a member of the minority party, Senator Walsh will probably not be as important or conspicuous a figure as he would be if his party were in control, for lines are drawn pretty tightly in Congress, particularly in the upper branch.

Interest also turns to Senator Medill McCormick of Illinois, whose friends profess great things from him. Also from the Middle West comes Truman H. Newberry of Michigan who has had experience in public life as Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and was a friend of Colonel Roosevelt. In the development of any statesman publicity is a great factor, and Senator Newberry is nationally known through his contest with Henry Ford, before, during and after the senatorial election.

Other newcomers who are certain to attract more or less attention in the early days of the session are Senators Davis Atkins of West Virginia, Walter E. Edge of New Jersey, Byron P. Harrison of Mississippi, already well known as a member of the lower house, and L. C. Phipps of Colorado.

STOLE PARCEL POST PACKAGE AND SOLD CONTENTS

Charles J. Bart, of Altoona, was arrested by the police last evening for the theft of a parcel post package containing some seven or eight dollars worth of ice cream cones and other circus day supplies which had been consigned to Fred F. Barrett, the restaurant man. Bart disposed of the goods at a local drug store for $1.00. The druggist realizing the man had stolen the stuff promptly notified the police and the hobo was picked up.

Bart is well known to the police as he has been "in the toils" here several times. A couple of years ago he robbed the room of a man named King at one of the downtown hotels and also made a cleanup at a Market street rooming house about the same time. He spent several months in jail for these crimes, but as he has interfered with Uncle Sams mail this time he will likely get a trip to Pittsburg for review by the Federal authorities.

Bart is an itinerant printer or painter and also dabbles with the flowing bowl, not wisely but too well.

ORDER IN THE COURT!

That a circus parade has even greater drawing power for the average American than a sensational murder trial was evidenced yesterday afternoon. During the cross examination of the accused the "fan fare" of rumpeters preceding the parade broke upon the stillness of the courtroom, the audience immediately became restive and a bunch of people started out. Soon an attorney or two could not stand the jar, and when a court attaché or two approached the side window back of the Grand Jury box the audience on the street side of the room all headed for the windows. Judge Bell banged his gavel and the tipstaff and court crier attempted to restore order but it was no use and to save the situation a recess of ten minutes was declared until the parade and its music and noise got by. This done a resumption was had, the witness returned to the stand and the examination was continued, but all hands saw the parade.

Says Hot Water Each Day Keeps The Doctor Away

Drink glass of hot water before breakfast to wash out poisons.

Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and you now very easy it is if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel full an idleness when they arise, suffering headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisons stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of Epsom's phosphate. In it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the day's indigestible waste, our bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and Epsom's phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly retreating a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, biliousness, stomach trouble, rheumatism, others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of Epsom's phosphate from the drug store which will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced drunk on the subject of internal sanitation.

LUTHERAN CHURCH

The English Lutheran church will be glad to share with the general public a free stereopticon lecture to be delivered at the church next Sunday evening, May 18, by the Rev. Roy M. Dunkelberger, a returned missionary from India. On account of the nature of the service, it will be held at 8:00 o'clock. The preliminary devotional service will last half an hour, so that the lecture will really begin at 8:30, because it will not be dark enough before that. The subject is "India and the Far East." Over 100 slides will be shown. It is well worth your while.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By REV. F. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Teacher of English Bible in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(Copyright, 1919, by Western Newspaper Union.)

LESSON FOR MAY 18.

THE GRACE OF GOD.

LESSON TEXTS—Ephesians 2:4-10; Titus 2:11-14. GOLDEN TEXT—We believe that through the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ we shall be saved, even as they.—Acts 15:11. ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Genesis 6:7; 2 Cor. 1:12; John 1:16, 17; 1 Cor. 15:10; James 4:6; 1 Peter 4:10; 2 Peter 3:12.

Grace means unmerited favor. God's grace means his kindness toward us through Jesus Christ. (Eph. 2:7.) God's mercy does not go out to men because they are good but because he is good and desires to bestow that goodness upon lost and ruined men in order to make them good.

1. The Grace of God in Salvation (Eph. 2:4-10.)

Grace brings salvation; it does not send it. Jesus Christ, who is the embodiment of God's love and grace, came bringing salvation with him. In order to apprehend what the grace of God has done, observe:

1. Man's natural state (Eph. 2:1-3). In the natural man is found all that is opposed to the will and purpose of God. (1) Dead in trespasses and sins (v. 1). The supreme need of the dead man is life, therefore he must have life from without himself. The characteristic of one who is dead is that he is (a) without sensation—"just feeling." (4:19.) The natural man, therefore, can neither love God nor hate sin until he is made alive.

(b) Without motion. Activity is the demonstration of life. So far as God and holiness are concerned they are motionless. They are as helpless as Lazarus was in the grave. (2) Under the control of fleshly and worldly lusts (v. 2). The carnal nature holds sway over their lives. (3) Under the domination of Satan (v. 2). All unregenerate men and women are ruled by Satan. Since he is the god of this age (2 Cor. 4:4), the prince of this world (John 12:31), all who have not been freed by Christ are under the rule of Satan. (4) Under the condemnation and wrath of God (v. 3). Over all these—death, worldliness, disobedience, lust of the flesh—hangs the wrath and condemnation of God.

2. Man's state by grace (2:4-10). (1) He is alive in Christ (v. 5). The Holy Spirit lays hold upon men dead in sin, and quickens them into life. (2) Raised up with Christ (v. 6). God's grace not only makes lost men alive but raises them up with Christ. (3) Association with Christ in glory (v. 6). Christ's incarnation has so identified himself with the race that those who are saved are raised up to be with Christ and shall ultimately share his glory. The actuating principle of God which moved him to thus lay hold upon lost men is his love (v. 4). Man's salvation is due entirely to God's grace. Not only the salvation has been provided in grace but the faith which appropriates it is God's gift (v. 8). Works as grounds of salvation are absolutely excluded.

(4) The purpose of God in the salvation of men (v. 7, 10). (a) It is to display his grace in the coming ages. The demonstration to the inhabitants of the spheres in which sin has not entered, in the ages to come, will be the transformation of dead and lost men and their exaltation with Christ. (b) To glorify God through their good works (v. 10; cf. Matt. 5:16). While good works have absolutely no part in the salvation of men God's purpose in saving them was that they might do good works.

11. The Grace of God in Right Living (Titus 2:11-14). Grace is not only essential to salvation but essential to right living. It teaches saved men (1) to deny ungodliness (v. 12). The saved man has the divine nature. The grace which has saved him teaches him the necessity of a denial of everything that is opposed to God. (2) Worldly lusts (v. 12). The redeemed man is surrounded with the things of the world which have a downward pull upon him. The grace of God teaches him to renounce them. (3) Sober living (v. 12). The grace of God teaches the saved man self-control; to have the reins of his nature well in command and to rule with a strong hand. (4) Righteous living (v. 12). The grace of God teaches the saved man to live uprightly with reference to those about him. (5) Godly living (v. 12). It teaches him to so live in this present world as to enable him to meet God and abide in his fellowship. (6) It teaches the right motive in living (v. 13, 14). The blessed hope of the glorious return of the Lord Jesus Christ is the grand incentive to holy living in this present world. He that has it will keep himself pure. (1 John 3:3.)

Greatest of All Heroes. The greatest of all heroes is One—whom we do not name here! Let sacred silence meditate that sacred matter; you will find it the ultimate perfection of a principle extant throughout man's whole history on earth—Christ.

Christian Life. The problem of the Christian life finally is simplified to this—man has but to preserve the right attitude: To abide in Christ, to be in position that is all.—Henry Drummond.

CHICAGO OPERA STARS BAFFLED WHEN CICCOLINI TESTS THE $3,000,000.00 PHONOGRAPH

THAT Ciccolini would score a great success as Alfredo in Traviata, the season's initial offering of the Chicago Opera Association, was a foregone conclusion. His career has been a series of triumphs.

On the following day, accompanied by Carolina and Virgilio Lazzari, respectively leading contralto and world-famed basso of the Chicago organization, Ciccolini called at a friend's studio.

"Ah! here's a New Edison!" exclaimed the great tenor. "Let's hear ourselves as others hear us." And they began playing their own RE-CREATIONS. Finally Ciccolini inserted "Marschale," the Neapolitan street song which he sings with such verve and spirit.

As the beautiful melody flooded the room Ciccolini, too, began to sing.

"A duet!" exclaimed Virgilio Lazzari. "And they're as like as two peas. I doubt if I can tell them apart."

Closing his eyes, he listened attentively. Ciccolini gradually reduced the volume of his voice. Finally he ceased.

"Why don't you stop?" inquired his listener a moment later. "So that I can tell the difference?"

Ciccolini and Signorina Lazzari burst into laughter. Virgilio Lazzari, a star of Grand Opera, with the sensitive tone perceptions which that fact implies, was forced to admit that he had been completely baffled. He could not distinguish artist from instrument.

Nor was this strange. Out of the vast audiences, totalling more than 2,000,000 people, which have attended Edison tone tests not one person has been able to distinguish the artist from the New Edison. And this applies to instrumental renditions as well as to vocal. By the test of direct comparison this wonderful phonograph has proved its power to RE-CREATE the artist's voice or instrument with such fidelity that the two performances are indistinguishable. The three million dollars which went into its development was well expended.

LONDON AIR RAIDS KILLED 473 PEOPLE

(By United Press)

LONDON. (By Mail).—Final official reports issued by the London Fire Brigade show that 473 persons were killed outright, and 1105 injured, many of whom died subsequently, during the 25 air-raids London suffered in the war. In all 857 bombs were dropped by the raiders, of which 372 were incendiary bombs.

The worst raid was June 12, 1917, a daylight raid, when 39 bombs were dropped, 108 persons killed, and 225 injured.

Between September 4 and October 1, 1917, London suffered six raids, three on successive nights, and five within eight days. Of London's 26 raids, the first six were Zeppelin visitations.

THE ARDARY CASE

John Hauck went to the Ardary house somewhere between 1 and 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Ralph and Cora were both at the house. He then went to the barn and found Alonzo Ardary, Orvis Smith and Albert Borst. He described how the injured man was lying with his right hand extended from his side, and the revolver lying a few inches from the hand. He assisted in placing Lawrence on a stretcher and helping take him home. He was yet living but unconscious. Mr. Reed was then asked to qualify as an expert on lumber and ballistics. He was shown the board containing the bullet hole already introduced in evidence and said it was second growth hemlock. He was then asked concerning his experience with a bullet hole through such hemlock and whether in his opinion you could determine the position of the man finding the shot from the bullet hole in the wood and he said he did not think so, because the bullet would follow the grain of the wood and instead of going straight through would deflect to either right or left. He was then asked if he was not a witness because of his enmity to Alonzo Ardary, but said he was present in answer to a subpoena.

John Hauck, one of the first neighbors to arrive at the Ardary barn, testified as to the position of the body when he saw him shortly after 1 o'clock. He said the right arm was extended about one foot from the body and the revolver was lying on a line with his waist about eighteen inches to the right of the hand. At this point court adjourned until 8:30 Saturday morning.

Saturday Morning

When court opened Saturday morning at 8:45 o'clock George Ardary was recalled to the witness stand and examined regarding the number of horses in the barn and the number of barrels at the barn and identified the barrel he gave to the Sheriff, stating that there were three barrels there, one smashed and the other two alright.

Cora Ardary was then recalled and asked if Lawrence had talked about the colt to Ralph just previous to the shooting; and he said he had.

Alfred Sloppy, who lived about one mile from the Ardary's, was called and asked if he knew Lawrence Ardary. Said he worked with him and had seen him hunting and he had noticed him shooting right and left handed. Also saw him use his right hand in making the number on his car.

Lewis Demi, Sr., was the next witness. He lived on adjoining farms for several years. Knew Lawrence Ardary at his life and saw him use his right hand and noted that he always wore gloves.

George Jones, brother-in-law of Ralph Ardary, was next called. He saw Lawrence work and use his right hand.

Maggie Demi noticed that Lawrence always wore gloves when working.

Hattie Demi gave similar testimony.

Cora Ardary was again recalled and testified that Lawrence used his right hand in eating.

May Ardary, wife of George Ardary, testified that Lawrence used the whip in his right hand when she rode with him in a buggy.

Mrs. George Jones, sister of Ralph Ardary, identified the bullet taken from Ralph's arm while he was at the hospital, which she received wrapped in gauze from Miss Mitchell, one of the nurses at the hospital. She had turned it over to Mr. Woodward, counsel for the defense. The bullet in two pieces was placed in evidence.

George Jones was recalled and testified that he knew Ralph Ardary for ten or twelve years and regarded him as of a nervous temperament. Was timid and wanted some person to go out with him at night.

Charles Stevens, of Clearfield, formerly living near Glen Richey. Knew both Ardary boys. His testimony was objected to by the Commonwealth.

and he was not permitted to testify.

Joe Dougherty, of Clearfield, who was raised on adjoining farm. Saw Lawrence Ardary at C. Shickling's funeral in March. He was asked about a conversation he had with him then. The prosecution objected to the testimony and the Court sustained the objection.

Daniel Penrose, brother-in-law of Ralph Ardary. He was present at family gathering Feb. 15th and heard Cora's story about finger prints on the rifle with which George Ardary was killed, and said if the gun had not been handled the murderer might have been detected.

John Hauck was recalled and his evidence was not allowed.

At this point the defense rested.

Ralph Ardary was called by District Attorney Arnold for further cross examination at 10:35. He was asked concerning a conversation he was alleged to have had with his sister Cora in the jail regarding Lawrence asking him about the colt, in which she said Lawrence asked to buy the colt every day, "and you replied 'No, not every day'." Then Cora said, "You said every day and I said every day at the Coroner's inquest and we must both stick to that story." The witness said he did not remember saying anything like that but would not swear he didn't say it because

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS CURWENSVILLE

Curwensville may not be so large in size or in population as some of her sister towns but when it came to subscribing her quota to the Fifth Liberty Loan, she was there with the amount of her allotment and then some. In these modern days you still find those who preach that a "woman's place is the home"; even so, that is not the only place she makes good as was shown when the Women's Committee came to the front with $70,000. And the Boy Scouts bless their hearts. They put it all over "Get-Rich Quick Wallingford" in getting their amount of $25,000.00, which brought the total to $95,000, a good half of the quota for this district, which was a little less than $180,000. This entitles us to both Service flags and the 5-bar flag, of which we can be mighty proud because it shows that when it comes to expressing our patriotism, Curwensville acts, not talks.

Rev. John Cameron will preach in the Baptist church Sunday, May 18th, both morning and evening. Everybody cordially welcome.

M. D. Worthington of Main St., is spending a few days at his former home in Williamsport, Pa.

Frances Hartzog of Philadelphia is a guest at the home of Ed. Benson at Naulton. We learned today that Mr. Benson's brother, Herbert, who is visiting him, is enlisted in the regular army instead of the Navy and has been stationed at Ft. Preble, Maine.

All members of the C. H. S. Alumni Association are urged to be present at the meeting to be held in the High School building Monday evening, May 19th, at 7:45 o'clock.

Mrs. Frank's alma who has been ill for some time at the home of her son, Vincent Di Palma of Naulton is somewhat improved.

The funeral of Michael Volpe will be held at 2:30 P. M. Sunday instead of Saturday as previously announced in these columns.

GRAMPIAN

Mrs. and Mrs. E. M. Davis are attending Friend yearly meeting in Philadelphia this week and incidentally visiting their daughter, Mrs. R. P. Kester, at Newton.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. John Cleaver May 13, a boy.

Mrs. L. S. Spencer and sons Leslie and Garry spent Wednesday at E. A. Spencer's.

Mrs. Sarah Overdoff is reported quite ill at this writing.

The roads have been put in good condition very quickly by the use of the drag after the recent wet spell.

The airplanes have been seen by a large number of persons the past few days.

HOME FROM OVERSEAS

Foster Kerr, a member of the 111th Regiment, arrived home this morning having been mustered out of the service at Camp Sherman yesterday. Foster received seven or eight wounds and spent many weary weeks in overseas hospitals. It was reported that he had left a leg or two behind in France but he marched up town this morning "forked end down" with all his running gears tracking property and in good shape.

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS BEARER HOME

Lester Carson, the Clearfield boy, who received the D. S. C. for extreme bravery under fire on account of his volunteering for extremely hazardous duty while a member of Co. L of the 111th Regiment, arrived home today from Camp Sherman after having been mustered out of the service.

Active Age Proves Real Quality

The warriors grown gray in harness, and white-haired employees still on the job, a scuffed and scarred set of Silvertown Cords on an ancient car, somehow best tells the story of the matchless service of these patriotic tires.

The graceful, well-groomed elegance, with which they when new adorn smart cars, may be shabby; their tough tread worn smooth; but their distinction remains.

Once a Silvertown always a Silvertown. You know them, old or new, for aristocrats.

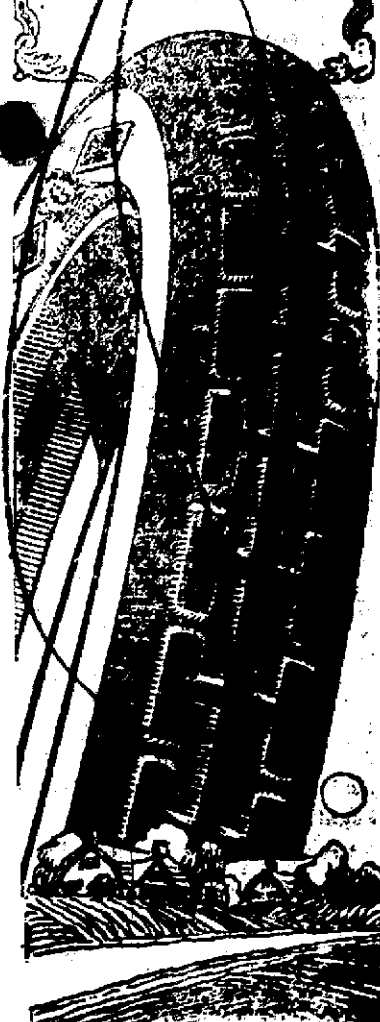

In their age, you read the history of their wonderful endurance; their useful career of miles and miles of road troving.

You always get the long mileage of a ripe old age to round out the youthful beauty of the tires with the Twin Red Diamonds on the sidewall.

HAD THROAT AND STOMACH TROUBLE FOR FIFTEEN YEARS

Mr. Bates tells how he finally got rid of it. Says he's cured.

"I had throat and stomach trouble for 15 years. A dozen doctors gave me no relief. Finally they sent me to Colerado. I stayed there three months without benefit and came home coughing worse than ever. Then I heard of Milk's Emulsion and commenced taking it. Before I had taken half a bottle, I found it was doing me more good than all the medicine I had ever taken. I continued the use until it cost me sound and well. I have gained 15 pounds, don't cough any more and can eat anything. Thank God I heard of Milk's Emulsion."—John Bates, 172 S. West St., Carbonade, Ill.

Sufferers from indigestion, bloating, flatulence, bad cough and all other ailments of the stomach should try Milk's Emulsion. It costs nothing to try—it is guaranteed. And it has quickly succeeded in thousands of severe cases. Milk's Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy, natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and physics. It promotes appetite and quickens the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. As a builder of flesh and strength, Milk's Emulsion is strongly recommended to run-down nervous people, and it has produced amazing results in many cases of asthma, chronic bronchitis and tuberculosis of the lungs. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved—usually in one day.

This is the only milk emulsion made and sold that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. A truly wonderful medicine for sickly children.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milk's Emulsion under the guarantee—Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions and if not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. Price, one and $1.20 per bottle. The Milk's Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold and guaranteed by Stewart's Drug Co.

SPORT Togs Come In All Colors of The Rainbow And The Sport Girls Show Them on The Avenues.

HECTIC SHADES ON SKIRTS

BY MARGARET RHOE
(Written for The United Press)

Most stunning togs of every sort for every sport has May; For polo, tennis, motoring, Golf, fishing and croquet; For basket ball and swimming, too. But at the end of day, She's changed those togs so many times She's had no time for play.

NEW YORK, May 16.—Some in rags—glad rags; some in tags—large and juicy price tags—and some in velvet coats, the sport girls are coming to town. Most every one knows that the smartest sport togs are worn in town, anyway, strolling down Fifth Avenue rather than through open fields and a swaggy sweater and tri-clorette skirt are just as much in evidence teeing at the Ritz as teeing on the golf course.

But be that as it may, the newest velvet sport coats that are crowding the ubiquitous sweater for sport supremacy this season are certainly winners. Some are cut on Tuxedo lines, while others affect the belted Norfolk style and both are equally effective.

One stunning belted model in black velvet has a panel collar bound with black braid that ends in two novel pockets, button trimmed at each side of the front. Two buttons embellish the plain tight sleeves and two also fasten the braid trimmed belt. The coat is lined with white silk.

Black satin coats are also smart and wool Jersey Norfolk jackets, in all vivid shades, turn the sweaters pale with envy. Still sweaters are by no means to be cold-shouldered out of the picture. Coat sweaters of silk and wool cling to sporty shoulders and the slip-on ones of wool or silk, either with or without sleeves, have taken on a new angle or two, with a flit weave that opens up new possibilities within its crocheted squares and flit motifs. Vivid and hectic shades of sweaters are still in the running, though guaranteed not to run, yet the pure white sweater or the one black as the Kaiser's conscience are the two chic favorites.

It is the sport skirt that is a perfect riot of color this season—so much so that it is indeed almost necessary for a subdued black velvet or a chaste white sweater to top off such frivolities with a dignified finish.

In tri-clorette, Georgette satin and Fantasi silks they are tucked and pocketed, pleated and button trimmed. In ball room shades of pink, turquoise, orchid, apricot and Nile green they combine satin stripes upon a Georgette base in a manner to reveal much shapely symmetry.

Hardier, more durable but no less smart, are the skirts of flannel and serge. All white serge skirts show a penchant for many pin tucks bisecting them around and round, with rows of bone buttons, down one side or both and always tucked and buttoned pockets. The tri-clorette skirts weave their silken charms around fair nether limbs in all colors of the rainbow, but depend rather on their color and material beauty than on trimming and ornate garnishment for the effects.

Flannel and serge skirts are run to large and colorful plaids and wide of color and there are either box or knife pleated. One-toned flannel skirts or pink, Copenhagen or light blue are all tucked up considerably and there is a new crinkly weave silk in all these delicate pastel tones that seems to be quite the newest wrinkle of them all.

In days of old in ancient Greece and Rome, the winning sports were crowned with laurel wreaths, but nowadays in up-to-date New York the sirens of the sport feel that they are winners only when they are crowned with a floppy wide brimmed hat of hectic hues and coarse meshed straw, garlanded, ribbon or fruit-wreath or else a smart, close fitting, shiny black straw sailor, banded in brilliant pecked dotted, Roman striped or Futuristically figured silk.

To be a good little sport these days certainly does require some clothes.

CLARK CHOSEN MINORITY FLOOR LEADER

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Champ Clark, retiring speaker of the House was unanimously chosen minority floor leader by the House Democratic caucus today. Anti-Clark men, however, won a partial victory when the caucus appointed a committee to investigate as to the advisability of the appointment of a steering committee to decide the Democratic policy in the House. The fight against Clark failed to develop because of a compromise reached early today between the two factions.

he didn't remember such conversation. John M. Bain was called for the purpose of contradicting the testimony of George Ardary regarding what he told Sheriff Gorman about the revolver. The witness corroborated the story told by the Sheriff on the stand.

Sheriff Gorman was recalled and repeated his story regarding George's explanation of the operation of the gun.

Miss Annie Johns, housekeeper at the jail, was called and asked concerning a conversation at the jail between Cora Ardary and Ralph Ardary. The defense objected and asked for an offer at "side bar". The offer was made, Judge Bell overruled the objection and the evidence admitted. She testified that Cora and Ralph had a conversation at the jail in which Cora said, "Ralph, Lawrence asked to buy the coat every day," and Ralph replied "No, not every day, just occasionally." Then Cora replied, "You said every day and I said every day at the Coroner's inquest, and we will have to stick to that story." She said she was at the refrigerator some six or eight feet distant when she overheard the conversation.

Testimony All In

Cora Ardary was recalled by the defense and denied having a conversation such as that and she never remembered having said anything like that to him. Never suggested to Ralph what he should testify to.

On cross examination she said she could not answer whether or not she had advised him regarding the story he should tell.

This concluded the testimony both sides announcing their case was closed. It being 11:45 o'clock the noon recess was taken.

NOW UP TO JURY TO SOLVE PROBLEM OF GUILT OR INNOCENCE OF RALPH
ARDARY ACCUSED OF KILLING COUSINATTORNEY A. H. WOODWARD MAKES STRONG PLEA IN DEFENSE WHILE STATE DEMANDS FIRST DEGREE

VERDICT TOMORROW IS POSSIBLE

The Ardary murder case is slowly nearing the end. The attorneys interested made a very hard fight and this fact in itself added to the length of the trial, as no point was overlooked and objection after objection to the testimony of both sides was offered.

The prosecution took no chances and allowed nothing objectionable to get to the jury. When the question of the attorneys for the defense got close to the edge an offer at "side bar" was asked for and the offer made out of the hearing of the jury and if not admissible the evidence was not allowed or the question even to be asked.

The testimony was ended at 11:45, the afternoon session being devoted to the pleas of the attorneys and the Judge's charge.

The court room habitues are generally of the opinion that the defendant will be freed, basing that opinion largely on the defendant's story of the shooting, corroborated by the testimony of his sister Cora, who said she heard the final shot in the barn and almost on the instant saw Ralph run through the gate into the yard.

On the other hand there is considerable damaging circumstantial evidence against the accused.

Promptly at 1:30 Attorney A. H. Woodward took the floor to address the jury for the defense and did not close his plea until late in the afternoon. Immediately following him, District Attorney Arnold summed up the evidence produced by the Commonwealth and asked at the hands of the jury a verdict of first degree murder. It is expected that the Judge will not charge the jury before very late this evening. In this event a verdict may be expected sometime tomorrow but many believe that the jury will be unable to agree before Monday.

The Testimony

Following the noon recess yesterday the cross examination of Ralph Ardary was resumed. In answer to Mr. Miller's questions he said he had always been of a nervous temperament and became more nervous after his father's death and attributed his condition to the shock due to finding his father shot, and also said he had never stayed in the house without having someone to stay with him and Lawrence stayed with him until his brother George came. The Attorney asked him if he and Lawrence had discussed his father's killing and he said they had. He was asked if he had ever charged Lawrence with the killing and he said he never had, and when asked if Lawrence had ever argued him with the crime also replied in the negative. He was questioned regarding George's revolver and said on a Saturday night when George was away he had taken the revolver and examined it, took the shells therefrom and snapped it several times before reloading and replacing it in the bureau. Said he had always been afraid to go to the attic alone even before his father's death and had never been up alone since his father's death until he went up after asking Lawrence to go along. He stuck closely to his story as to the barrel episode and seeing Lawrence Ardary coming out of his room.

In accounting for leaving his gloves in the barn he said the gloves were too large for him anyhow and he took them off because they were too unhandy to work with while taking the burrs off the hack top rod. He said Lawrence came up to him with his left hand behind him and started to shoot with his right hand. He threw up his left hand and then grappled with Lawrence and threw him down. Mr. Miller asked him how he caught him and the witness invited him to come forward and he would show him. The Attorney came forward and the witness demonstrated to the jury how he took hold of Lawrence. He denied having told Orvis Smith that he was just passing Pearl, the horse, when he heard the third shot fired. Also denied about every other statement following the shooting attributed to him by Smith in his testimony. Also denied telling in the presence of W. J. Leavy and Sheriff Gorman that the barrel jammed in the stairway when he called

Lawrence to come up and help him. He put on his hat and stooped over to demonstrate the position he was in when shot and in placing it on his head placed the bow on the right side and was challenged by Mr. Miller as to why he did so, that placing to rear of the hat in front. This is the way the hat would have had to be worn at the time of the shooting, according to the location of the bullet hole in it. He told of reading the story regarding the barrel sticking in the stairway in The Progress on the Thursday following the shooting, a short time before he gave his statement to the District Attorney in which he said the barrel did not stick. The examination of the accused ended at 2:55. He maintained a clear head through the cross examination and made a very good witness for himself.

DI S. J. Waterworth was next called and testified to the wound in Ralph Ardary's arm and the removal of the bullet therefrom. He said the bullet entered about one and one-half inches below the crease of the elbow and passed through the radius one of the bones of the forearm, the bullet splitting when it struck the bone. The operation took fifteen minutes.

Sister Testifies

Cora Ardary, sister of Ralph Ardary, testified that her father, George W. Ardary, herself and Ralph Ardary made up the family at home until Feb. 9th when her father was killed. Lawrence Ardary stayed at the house at night from this time until March 5th until her brother George came to live there March 5th. Lawrence Ardary also came to the house every day, sometimes several times.

She saw Lawrence when he came over at about 1 o'clock the day of the shooting. She went up in the attic to get some onions and Ralph went along to look for the barrel. Lawrence came over before she had the dinner dishes off the table and shortly after he came Ralph and he started up stairs. She also saw them come down but did not recall which one came down first. After they had gone out of the house she heard a noise like the colt kicking when she heard the last sound she jumped to the window and as she got there she saw Ralph coming through the gate and came running to the house holding ing his arm and she went to the kitchen door and let him in. He was running and she thought the colt had kicked him. When Ralph got inside he exclaimed "My God, Cora, Lawrence tried to kill me." The sleeve of his jacket was smoking. She telephoned for Orvis Smith, a neighbor, Dr. King of Curwensville, and "Duckett" Bois, another neighbor. She said Ralph had his hat on the same way he wore it in the court room demonstration. She recalled the position of the hat because the hole in it and the sleeve were on the same side. She also corroborated Ralph's story regarding the revolver in George's room, etc., and said it was the first time a revolver had been kept in the house. Didn't hear Ralph make statements to Orvis Smith the latter testified he had. Never heard Ralph say the barrel had stuck in the stairs and never heard Ralph say to Orvis Smith that he feared Lawrence had shot himself in the barn. She was asked concerning a conversation she had with the District Attorney regarding her father's death on the presence of Ralph, Alonzo Ardary and Judge Bell in which he asked if the gun had been handled after the shooting. She then told a family group a home about what the Judge said. Lawrence Ardary was present at the time this statement was made.

District Attorney Arnold then took the witness on cross examination. The witness was made the target for a lot of rapid fire questions and when asked concerning some description between the story now and that told at the Corner's inquest said she was unable to recall some of the answers made then.

George Ardary, brother of Ralph, was then sworn. He told of going home March 5th. Did not see Lawrence around much after he got there, except about fifteen minutes one day. He also tried to buy the colt on twenty different occasions. He identified the revolver with which the shooting was done as his gun. Took it to George Ardary home March 6th. Lawrence saw the revolver that night when he took it out of his hand bag. He said Lawrence had also seen this gun five or six years before when he borrowed it for ten days or two weeks. The trigger spring was weak. Sometimes it could be operated fast and sometimes it could not. He heard Cora make the statement of Judge Bell in the presence of Lawrence.

On cross examination he was given the revolver and demonstrated that it could not be fired a second time until the trigger had been pushed forward after the first shot. He denied having told Sheriff Gorman on the day of the inquest that the revolver would never operate better or differently.

Curtis Reed, a neighbor of the Ardary's testified that he was notified of the shooting and in company with

THEY'LL ALL SOON BE MISSED

AN OFFERTORY

International complications "have rizz", our beloved country has been charged by Japan with "Mayhem" "aggravated insult" and "intent to defraud." When Stauffer, who was disguised as the Mikado, came on the stage a shudder went over the audience which was conveyed by wireless waves to the Kaiser's propagandists. With devilish cunning they at once got busy and sent a radio photo of the whole darn show to the Mikado of Japan, and he is mad clean through, the latest cable says that he is raging up and down the Palace swearing by the fourteen suns of Nippon that he will have vengeance. He has the whole outfit "on the list". All the nobles, the chief high, the clown prince, the Lord Executioner, and the caricature of himself which riled his dander "they will soon be missed" "they'll soon be missed" and as for that man that stood behind the scenes and made the proud Mikado of Japan a joke for the "nations to laugh" Well the secret agents will attend to him and "boiled oil" will be no joke. However a later cable says that there are "mitigating" circumstances. When the gaze of the Mighty Nippon is on the features of Stauffer his expression is horrible. When it travels from Stauffer to Ban he almost faints and when he looks at J. Fred and Howell he turns blue around the eyes. Alfred makes him caress the sword which he inherited from a thousand ancestors, but when he looks on the left side of the radio photo and sees all those Japanese ladies—Well the old Geezer seems to warm up. He was heard to say that 3 fingers of rice brandy in a bath tub would hardly faze him—but those ladies made life look like one long "Till Willow Song".

Our government is making strenuous efforts in a "Pielowickian" scene to smooth the whole thing over and has left it all up to Burleson who will probably get the Mikado "up in the air" and raise the cable rates. It is necessary in order to establish friendly diplomatic relations, the ladies of the cast will be sent to Japan to appear before the ruler of a thousand suns and if the old Gink don't thaw out, J. Fred will be sent over to gas him. Anyhow "hats off" to the whole bunch, they have added to the Joy of Life and contributed to the "Gaiety of Nations".

LABOR WEDGE MAY SECURE HUN ENTRY
INTO THE LEAGUE

By LOWELL MELLETT

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
PARIS, May 17.—German inclusion in the League of Nations appeared near today when it became known that Allied leaders were considering her membership in the international labor bureau. The peace treaty specifically provides that members of the bureau should be members in the League or become members later. Although Germany probably will not be taken into the bureau immediately because of a hostile element in certain Allied countries it is believed in many quarters certain she will be included in the bureau and the league very soon. When premier Clemenceau gave the reply to the German labor note Wednesday the latter asked that it be held up until the committee of Allied labor experts could consider "another question". It was too late to prevent publication, however. Then when the committee met again the question to be discussed was whether the Germans should be taken into the bureau at this time. For the reason given it was decided to be unfeasible but it was decided to submit the finding, cached at the labor council in Washington in October to the Ger-

N. C. 4 "JINX BOAT"
FIRST TO LAND IN THE AZORES GROUP

PUNTAPELAGADA, AZORES, May 17.—The seaplane NC-4 has landed at Horta on the Island of Fayal of the Azores group. The plane landed at 9:20 A. M. New York time. Horta is 160 miles from the American base here.

WASHINGTON, May 17.—An American seaplane, the NC-4, "jinx boat" of Commander Towers' trans-oceanic flying fleet, established a world record in sea flying today. When the word reached the Navy Department here that this now famous Nancy had reached Horta, in the Azores group, she had officially gone 2,200 miles on her journey from America to Europe.

In the flight last night from Trepassey to the Azores, a distance of 1,200 miles, she made a world record of 80 miles an hour. All Washington was thrilled with the NC-4 speed. She surpassed the most radiant expectations of naval officials. It is 150 miles from Ponta Delgada and 950 miles away in Lisbon, her continental goal. According to the naval message the NC-4 arrived at Horta at 9:20 and a fog is reported along the Azores, making the landing difficult and officials believe that this condition may have forced Commander Reed to land at this port instead of Ponta Delgada.

NC-3 Off Course

Latest information from the NC-3 was that she was off her course somewhere between station 17 and 18. This caused some uneasiness in view of the report of foggy weather conditions. The NC-1 passed station 19 at 6:14 a. m.

Starting at 6:08 p. m. yesterday all three of the American sea planes left the water in the outer bay for the 1,200 mile leap to the Azores, and within a few minutes disappeared below the horizon. NC-4 was the first to leave the water, followed closely by NC-1 and NC-3.

Commander Towers in NC-3 led the flight from the mooring buoys, because his plane was more difficult to lift from the water than the others. The starting arrangements made in advance were carried out literally. The three planes were alongside the mooring buoys at the northern end of the harbor. The center forward engine on each plane was started after the crews had climbed to their positions from the motor launches; that sped from the side of the mine layer Aroostook.

Slowly the big planes were turned toward the narrows between the harbor and the outer bay of Trepassey. As they "taxied" past the cheering crews of the Aroostook and Prairie, the port and starboard engines were started; then the rear pushers went to work.

None of the three planes was driven fast as they skimmed through the water swerving frequently in the course to warm up their oil, an important matter.

Commander Towers directed NC-3 in wide curves to watch the progress of NC-1 and NC-4 following him and then headed into the face of the wind to attain maximum lifting power.

The white tail light flickering faintly and the dull red and green showed dimly at starboard and port of each plane.

The airmen all wore waterproof patented fabric suits drawn over their uniforms, with helmets to which telephone instruments were attached. The commanders in the cockpits are able to talk to all of the crew simultaneously or individually.

Neither life saving suits nor life belts were used, nor were any of the men's garments artificially heated. The suggestion that such precautions might be necessary in case of accident was smiled away with the reply of the commander that they did not intend to alight in mid-ocean nor anticipate any accident.

Even cranks were removed from the propellers as unnecessary, as the self starters were found to be perfect and any one or any two of the engines may be repaired in the air and started again by merely gliding against the wind.

man for their adherence. Such adherence will be easily obtained and is anticipated in view of Germany's own labor declaration. Thereafter Germany's admission to the bureau and league would be a matter of only a short time, it is expected.

GERMAN COUNTER PROPOSALS WILL ALL BE COMPLETED BY SATURDAY

By CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
BERLIN, May 16 (Delayed).—Counter proposals to the peace treaty probably will be completed Sunday it was learned from an authoritative source today. (Under regulations during the negotiations the Germans have to May 22, to discuss the terms.) Vast meetings are called for Saturday in the Reichstag and elsewhere to protest against the signing of the treaty. Some minor officials believe the terms will not be accepted unless modified.

THE ITALIAN CONTROVERSY TO DATE.

PARIS, May 17.—Italy has consented to the establishment of Fiume as a free port as well as relinquishing the claim to a portion of Isiprian and Dalmatian island, it was authoritatively learned this afternoon. A complete settlement has not yet been reached, however, as the Italians are still pressing their claim to certain Adriatic islands.

DANIELS ARRIVES HOME.

NEW YORK, May 17.—Secretary of Navy Daniels arrived from France today on the transatlantic M. Vernon.

FAMOUS GERMAN FLAG OF METZ WILL BE EXHIBITED FREE THIS EVENING

The people of Clearfield should avail themselves of the opportunity to hear Commandant Howard Hinkle, the Hero of Metz, who speaks tonight in the High school auditorium under the auspices of the County Campaign committee for the Salvation Army Home Service fund, of which W. I. Betts is chairman.

Commandant Hinkle is a Salvation Army man who spent several months at the front and has an interesting and instructive story of his work and experiences, which is worthy of a capacity attendance. He will exhibit the German flag which he captured when the Germans evacuated Metz. Hinkle is an exceptionally fine speaker and has done wonderful work throughout the state during the Victory Loan campaign.

No admission will be charged and everybody is cordially invited to attend.

Dead American
Rules ConferenceParis Editor Says Monroe Doctrine
Conflicts With League of Nations

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

PARIS. (By Mail).—Stephen Lausanne, editor of "Le Matin" considers that it will be impossible ever to reconcile the Monroe Doctrine with the idea of a League of Nations. He said in "Le Matin":

"If things continue to go as they are going now Monroe will finish the biggest figure in the Peace Conference. At present he is the only figure before which everybody bows."

"Who was Monroe?"
"Monroe was born in a carpenter shop and as time went on, engaged in most all the trades. He was colonel, lawyer, merchant, judge, ambassador, Secretary of State. Moreover, he did all of them well."

"In 1817 he became President of the United States."

"About that time a political tempest was blowing strong in the Old World. United under the name of the 'Holy Alliance,' the European governments talked of nothing less than the establishment of an absolutism, first in Europe, then in America."

"Monroe saw the storm-cloud coming his way and called his old friend, Thomas Jefferson, philosopher and friend of the French Philosopher d'Alembert and Condorcet, to a consultation. Whereupon Jefferson wrote:

"America, both North and South, has interests absolutely distinct from those of Europe and which belong to her alone. It is necessary, therefore to establish the principles of a system which shall keep these interests separate from those of the Old World. While the latter is trying to make itself the home of despotism our hemisphere is trying to make itself the land of Liberty."

"Monroe found the suggestion good, so on Dec. 2, 1823, in an address to Congress at Washington, he put the idea into slightly different words. He said:

Miss Helen Dowe of Denver has accepted a position as lookout in the United States forestry service and will spend the summer on Devil's Head mountain 40 miles southwest of Denver.

"Our politics has always consisted, and always should consist in taking no part in European wars. Also we have always obtained from intervention in the affairs of the colonies or dependencies of European nations and we shall continue so to do. But for those which have won their independence and obtained recognition as states, we can not but consider as an act hostile to the United States any intervention having for object the oppression or control in any manner whatever, of the destinies of these same."

"There it was! It was done! A new doctrine was born."

"Now is this Doctrine of Monroe violated by the League of Nations project?"

"It seems to me monumentally paradoxical and a trifle infantile to pretend the contrary."

"When the Executive Council of the League of Nations fixes the reasonable limits of the armament of Persia when it shall demand information concerning the naval program of Brazil (Art. 8 of the Covenant); when it shall tell Argentina what shall be the measure of the contribution to the armed forces to protect the signatures of the social Covenant (Art. 16); when it shall demand the immediate registration of the treaty between the United States and Canada at the seat of the League, it will control, whether it will or no, the destinies of America. And when the American States shall be obliged to take a hand in every war or menace of war in Europe (Art. 11), they will necessarily fall afoul of the fundamental principle laid down by Monroe which was that Americans should never take part in a European war."

"If the League takes in the world, then Europe must mix in the affairs of America; if only Europe is included, then America will violate of necessity her own doctrine by intervening in the affairs of Europe."

Printed at this office at Clearfield, Pa., as second class matter.

Me thinks that since the advent of the automobile the Lord welcomes a rainy Sabbath.

Some of our neighbor newspapers are worried to death about the evils of prohibition but we haven't heard of anybody beating his wife under the brutal influence of Moose Creek.

Boardman or Blain City is destined to become the Reno of Clearfield county and who knows but that one or both of these towns might become the sporting center of the central part of the state.

Can you beat it? That old C 5 Naval Dirigible, pulsating with American energy and initiative, broke her leash and "hepped off" on her own hook. She will be able to go some on Yankee reputation alone.

WHEN CONGRESS MEETS

BIG ISSUES BEFORE THE 66TH CONGRESS

- * Laws to curb Bolshevism
- * Legislation demanded by labor.
- * Decision as to the future of the merchant marine.
- * Legislation to aid business in getting back to a peace basis.
- * Legislation necessary for the enforcement of the prohibition law.
- * Legislation in regards to the future control of the railroad systems.
- * Settlement of compensation to be paid the telephone and telegraph companies for the use of their lines during the emergency.
- * Adoption of an army and a navy program on a peace basis, and appropriation of the money necessary to carry them into effect.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 17.—Promptly at noon on Monday the Senate and the House will be called to order for the first session of Congress since the ending of hostilities in the great war. It is to be an extra session of the Sixty-sixth Congress and the first session held by that body. Unlike the last Congress, which was devoted to matters relating to the prosecution of the war almost exclusively, the new Congress will be called upon to deal with the equally important problems of peace and reconstruction.

The length of the session is still a matter of guess work, with as many guesses as there are talkative statesmen in Washington. If the session should end before August it would be considered remarkable. If it should last until September or even October nobody would be surprised.

Next to the work of the new Congress as a whole, interest among observers in Washington turns largely to the development of individual members, and curiosity over the new faces which will be seen in both chambers. On the Democratic side in the Senate, Senator David I. Walsh, formerly governor of Massachusetts and the first Democrat to be elected to the United States senate from that state in two generations, will be a marked figure.

As a member of the minority party, Senator Walsh will probably not be as important or conspicuous a figure as he would be if his party were in control, for lines are drawn pretty tightly in Congress, particularly in the upper branch.

Interest also turns to Senator Medill McCormick of Illinois, whose friends profess great things from him. Also from the Middle West comes Truman H. Newberry of Michigan who has had experience in public life as Assistant Secretary of the Navy, and was a friend of Colonel Roosevelt. In the development of any statesman publicity is a great factor, and Senator Newberry is nationally known through his contest with Henry Ford, before, during and after the senatorial election.

Other newcomers who are certain to attract more or less attention in the early days of the session are Senators Davis Atkins of West Virginia, Walter E. Edge of New Jersey, Byron P. Harrison of Mississippi, already well known as a member of the lower house, and L. C. Phipps of Colorado.

STOLE PARCEL POST PACKAGE AND SOLD CONTENTS

Charles J. Bart, of Altoona, was arrested by the police last evening for the theft of a parcel post package containing some seven or eight dollars worth of ice cream cones and other circus day supplies which had been consigned to Fred F. Barrett, the restaurant man. Bart disposed of the goods at a local drug store for $1.00. The druggist realizing the man had stolen the stuff promptly notified the police and the hobo was picked up.

Bart is well known to the police as he has been "in the toils" here several times. A couple of years ago he robbed the room of a man named King at one of the downtown hotels and also made a cleanup at a Market street rooming house about the same time. He spent several months in jail for these crimes, but as he has interfered with Uncle Sams mail this time he will likely get a trip to Pittsburg for review by the Federal authorities.

Bart is an itinerant printer or painter and also dabbles with the flowing bowl, not wisely but too well.

ORDER IN THE COURT!

That a circus parade has even greater drawing power for the average American than a sensational murder trial was evidenced yesterday afternoon. During the cross examination of the accused the "fan fare" of rumpeters preceding the parade broke upon the stillness of the courtroom, the audience immediately became restive and a bunch of people started out. Soon an attorney or two could not stand the jar, and when a court attaché or two approached the side window back of the Grand Jury box the audience on the street side of the room all headed for the windows. Judge Bell banged his gavel and the tipstaff and court crier attempted to restore order but it was no use and to save the situation a recess of ten minutes was declared until the parade and its music and noise got by. This done a resumption was had, the witness returned to the stand and the examination was continued, but all hands saw the parade.

Says Hot Water Each Day Keeps The Doctor Away

Drink glass of hot water before breakfast to wash out poisons.

Life is not merely to live, but to live well, eat well, look well. What a glorious condition to attain, and you can very easily do it if one will only adopt the morning inside bath.

Folks who are accustomed to feel full an idleness when they arise, suffering headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisons stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning, before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of Epsom's phosphate. In it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the day's indigestible waste, our bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and Epsom's phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the water and phosphate is quietly retreating a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, biliousness, stomach trouble, rheumatism, others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of Epsom's phosphate from the drug store which will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone a pronounced drunk on the subject of internal sanitation.

LUTHERAN CHURCH

The English Lutheran church will be glad to share with the general public a free stereopticon lecture to be delivered at the church next Sunday evening, May 18, by the Rev. Roy M. Dunkelberger, a returned missionary from India. On account of the nature of the service, it will be held at 8:00 o'clock. The preliminary devotional service will last half an hour, so that the lecture will really begin at 8:30, because it will not be dark enough before that. The subject is "India and the Far East." Over 100 slides will be shown. It is well worth your while.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By REV. F. B. FITZWATER, D. D., Teacher of English Bible in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.)
(Copyright, 1919, by Western Newspaper Union.)

LESSON FOR MAY 18.

THE GRACE OF GOD.

LESSON TEXTS—Ephesians 2:4-10; Titus 2:11-14.

GOLDEN TEXT—We believe that through the grace of the Lord Jesus Christ we shall be saved, even as they.—Acts 15:11.
ADDITIONAL MATERIAL—Genesis 6:7; 2 Cor. 1:12; John 1:16, 17; 1 Cor. 15:10; James 4:6; 1 Peter 4:10; 2 Peter 3:14.

Grace means unmerited favor. God's grace means His kindness toward us through Jesus Christ. (Eph. 2:7.) God's mercy does not go out to men because they are good but because he is good and desires to bestow that goodness upon lost and ruined men in order to make them good.

1. The Grace of God in Salvation (Eph. 2:4-10.)

Grace brings salvation; it does not send it. Jesus Christ, who is the embodiment of God's love and grace, came bringing salvation with him. In order to apprehend what the grace of God has done, observe:

1. Man's natural state (Eph. 2:1-3). In the natural man is found all that is opposed to the will and purpose of God.

(1) Dead in trespasses and sins (v. 1). The supreme need of the dead man is life, therefore he must have life from without himself. The characteristic of one who is dead is that he is (a) without sensation—

"just feeling." (4:19.) The natural man, therefore, can neither love God nor hate sin until he is made alive.

(b) Without motion. Activity is the demonstration of life. So far as God and holiness are concerned they are motionless. They are as helpless as Lazarus was in the grave. (2) Under the control of fleshly and worldly lusts (v. 2). The carnal nature holds sway over their lives. (3) Under the domination of Satan (v. 2). All unregenerate men and women are ruled by Satan. Since he is the god of this age (2 Cor. 4:4), the prince of this world (John 12:31), all who have not been freed by Christ are under the rule of Satan. (4) Under the condemnation and wrath of God (v. 3). Over all these—death, worldliness, disobedience, lust of the flesh—hangs the wrath and condemnation of God.

2. Man's state by grace (2:4-10). (1) He is alive in Christ (v. 5). The Holy Spirit lays hold upon men dead in sin, and quickens them into life. (2) Raised up with Christ (v. 6). God's grace not only makes lost men alive but raises them up with Christ. (3) Association with Christ in glory (v. 6). Christ's incarnation has so identified himself with the race that those who are saved are raised up to be with Christ and shall ultimately share his glory. The actuating principle of God which moved him to thus lay hold upon lost men is his love (v. 4). Man's salvation is due entirely to God's grace. Not only the salvation has been provided in grace but the faith which appropriates it is God's gift (v. 8). Works as grounds of salvation are absolutely excluded.

(4) The purpose of God in the salvation of men (v. 7, 10). (a) It is to display his grace in the coming ages. The demonstration to the inhabitants of the spheres in which sin has not entered, in the ages to come, will be the transformation of dead and lost men and their exaltation with Christ. (b) To glorify God through their good works (v. 10; cf. Matt. 5:16). While good works have absolutely no part in the salvation of men God's purpose in saving them was that they might do good works.

11. The Grace of God in Right Living (Titus 2:11-14).

Grace is not only essential to salvation but essential to right living. It teaches saved men (1) to deny ungodliness (v. 12). The saved man has the divine nature. The grace which has saved him teaches him the necessity of a denial of everything that is opposed to God. (2) Worldly lusts (v. 12). The redeemed man is surrounded with the things of the world which have a downward pull upon him. The grace of God teaches him to renounce them. (3) Sober living (v. 12). The grace of God teaches the saved man self-control; to have the reins of his nature well in command and to rule with a strong hand. (4) Righteous living (v. 12). The grace of God teaches the saved man to live uprightly with reference to those about him. (5) Godly living (v. 12). It teaches him to so live in this present world as to enable him to meet God and abide in his fellowship. (6) It teaches the right motive in living (v. 13, 14). The blessed hope of the glorious return of the Lord Jesus Christ is the grand incentive to holy living in this present world. He that has it will keep himself pure. (1 John 3:3.)

Greatest of All Heroes.

The greatest of all heroes is One—whom we do not name here! Let sacred silence meditate that sacred matter; you will find it the ultimate perfection of a principle extant throughout man's whole history on earth—Calvary.

Christian Life.

The problem of the Christian life finally is simplified to this—man has but to preserve the right attitude: To abide in Christ, to be in position that is all.—Henry Drummond.

CHICAGO OPERA STARS BAFFLED WHEN CICCOLINI TESTS THE $3,000,000.00 PHONOGRAPH

THAT Ciccolini would score a great success as Alfredo in Traviata, the season's initial offering of the Chicago Opera Association, was a foregone conclusion. His career has been a series of triumphs.

On the following day, accompanied by Carolina and Virgilio Lazzari, respectively leading contralto and world-famed basso of the Chicago organization, Ciccolini called at a friend's studio.

"Ah! here's a New Edison!" exclaimed the great tenor. "Let's hear ourselves as others hear us." And they began playing their own RE-CREATIONS. Finally Ciccolini inserted "Marschale," the Neapolitan street song which he sings with such verve and spirit.

As the beautiful melody flooded the room Ciccolini, too, began to sing.

"A duet!" exclaimed Virgilio Lazzari. "And they're as like as two peas. I doubt if I can tell them apart."

Closing his eyes, he listened attentively. Ciccolini gradually reduced the volume of his voice. Finally he ceased.

"Why don't you stop?" inquired his listener a moment later. "So that I can tell the difference?"

Ciccolini and Signorina Lazzari burst into laughter. Virgilio Lazzari, a star of Grand Opera, with the sensitive tone perceptions which that fact implies, was forced to admit that he had been completely baffled. He could not distinguish artist from instrument.

Nor was this strange. Out of the vast audiences, totalling more than 2,000,000 people, which have attended Edison tone tests not one person has been able to distinguish the artist from the New Edison. And this applies to instrumental renditions as well as to vocal. By the test of direct comparison this wonderful phonograph has proved its power to RE-CREATE the artist's voice or instrument with such fidelity that the two performances are indistinguishable. The three million dollars which went into its development was well expended.

LONDON AIR RAIDS KILLED 473 PEOPLE

(By United Press)

LONDON. (By Mail).—Final official reports issued by the London Fire Brigade show that 473 persons were killed outright, and 1105 injured, many of whom died subsequently, during the 25 air-raids London suffered in the war. In all 857 bombs were dropped by the raiders, of which 372 were incendiary bombs.

The worst raid was June 12, 1917, a daylight raid, when 39 bombs were dropped, 108 persons killed, and 225 injured.

Between September 4 and October 1, 1917, London suffered six raids, three on successive nights, and five within eight days. Of London's 26 raids, the first six were Zeppelin visitations.

THE ARDARY CASE

John Hauck went to the Ardary house somewhere between 1 and 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Ralph and Cora were both at the house. He then went to the barn and found Alonzo Ardary, Orvis Smith and Albert Borst. He described how the injured man was lying with his right hand extended from his side, and the revolver lying a few inches from the hand. He assisted in placing Lawrence on a stretcher and helping take him home. He was yet living but unconscious. Mr. Reed was then asked to qualify as an expert on lumber and ballistics. He was shown the board containing the bullet hole already introduced in evidence and said it was second growth hemlock. He was then asked concerning his experience with a bullet hole through such hemlock and whether in his opinion you could determine the position of the man finding the shot from the bullet hole in the wood and he said he did not think so, because the bullet would follow the grain of the wood and instead of going straight through would deflect to either right or left. He was then asked if he was not a witness because of his enmity to Alonzo Ardary, but said he was present in answer to a subpoena.

John Hauck, one of the first neighbors to arrive at the Ardary barn, testified as to the position of the body when he saw him shortly after 1 o'clock. He said the right arm was extended about one foot from the body and the revolver was lying on a line with his waist about eighteen inches to the right of the hand. At this point court adjourned until 8:30 Saturday morning.

Saturday Morning

When court opened Saturday morning at 8:45 o'clock George Ardary was recalled to the witness stand and examined regarding the number of horses in the barn and the number of barrels at the barn and identified the barrel he gave to the Sheriff, stating that there were three barrels there, one smashed and the other two alright.

Cora Ardary was then recalled and asked if Lawrence had talked about the colt to Ralph just previous to the shooting; and he said he had.

Alfred Sloppy, who lived about one mile from the Ardary's, was called and asked if he knew Lawrence Ardary. Said he worked with him and had seen him hunting and he had noticed him shooting right and left handed. Also saw him use his right hand in making the number on his car.

Lewis Demi, Sr., was the next witness. He lived on adjoining farms for several years. Knew Lawrence Ardary at his life and saw him use his right hand and noted that he always wore gloves.

George Jones, brother-in-law of Ralph Ardary, was next called. He saw Lawrence work and use his right hand.

Maggie Demi noticed that Lawrence always wore gloves when working.

Hattie Demi gave similar testimony.

Cora Ardary was again recalled and testified that Lawrence used his right hand in eating.

May Ardary, wife of George Ardary, testified that Lawrence used the whip in his right hand when she rode with him in a buggy.

Mrs. George Jones, sister of Ralph Ardary, identified the bullet taken from Ralph's arm while he was at the hospital, which she received wrapped in gauze from Miss Mitchell, one of the nurses at the hospital. She had turned it over to Mr. Woodward, counsel for the defense. The bullet in two pieces was placed in evidence.

George Jones was recalled and testified that he knew Ralph Ardary for ten or twelve years and regarded him as of a nervous temperament. Was timid and wanted some person to go out with him at night.

Charles Stevens, of Clearfield, formerly living near Glen Richey. Knew both Ardary boys. His testimony was objected to by the Commonwealth.

and he was not permitted to testify.

Joe Dougherty, of Clearfield, who was raised on adjoining farm. Saw Lawrence Ardary at C. Shickling's funeral in March. He was asked about a conversation he had with him then. The prosecution objected to the testimony and the Court sustained the objection.

Daniel Penrose, brother-in-law of Ralph Ardary. He was present at family gathering Feb. 15th and heard Cora's story about finger prints on the rifle with which George Ardary was killed, and said if the gun had not been handled the murderer might have been detected.

John Hauck was recalled and his evidence was not allowed.

At this point the defense rested.

Ralph Ardary was called by District Attorney Arnold for further cross examination at 10:35. He was asked concerning a conversation he was alleged to have had with his sister Cora in the jail regarding Lawrence asking him about the colt, in which she said Lawrence asked to buy the colt every day, "and you replied 'No, not every day'." Then Cora said, "You said every day and I said every day at the Coroner's inquest and we must both stick to that story." The witness said he did not remember saying anything like that but would not swear he didn't say it because

"Truthfully Pure"

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS CURWENSVILLE

Curwensville may not be so large in size or in population as some of her sister towns but when it came to subscribing her quota to the Fifth Liberty Loan, she was there with the amount of her allotment and then some. In these modern days you still find those who preach that a "woman's place is the home"; even so, that is not the only place she makes good as was shown when the Women's Committee came to the front with $70,000. And the Boy Scouts bless their hearts. They put it all over "Get-Rich Quick Wallingford" in getting their amount of $25,000.00, which brought the total to $95,000, a good half of the quota for this district, which was a little less than $180,000. This entitles us to both Service flags and the 5-bar flag, of which we can be mighty proud because it shows that when it comes to expressing our patriotism, Curwensville acts, not talks.

Rev. John Cameron will preach in the Baptist church Sunday, May 18th, both morning and evening. Everybody cordially welcome.

M. D. Worthington of Main St., is spending a few days at his former home in Williamsport, Pa.

Frances Hartzog of Philadelphia is a guest at the home of Ed. Benson at Naulton. We learned today that Mr. Benson's brother, Herbert, who is visiting him, is enlisted in the regular army instead of the Navy and has been stationed at Ft. Preble, Maine.

All members of the C. H. S. Alumni Association are urged to be present at the meeting to be held in the High School building Monday evening, May 19th, at 7:45 o'clock.

Mrs. Frank's alma who has been ill for some time at the home of her son, Vincent Di Palma of Naulton is somewhat improved.

HOME FROM OVERSEAS

Foster Kerr, a member of the 111th Regiment, arrived home this morning having been mustered out of the service at Camp Sherman yesterday. Foster received seven or eight wounds and spent many weary weeks in overseas hospitals. It was reported that he had left a leg or two behind in France but he marched up town this morning "forked end down" with all his running gears tracking property and in good shape.

DISTINGUISHED SERVICE CROSS BEARER HOME

Lester Carson, the Clearfield boy, who received the D. S. C. for extreme bravery under fire on account of his volunteering for extremely hazardous duty while a member of Co. L of the 111th Regiment, arrived home today from Camp Sherman after having been mustered out of the service.

Active Age Proves Real Quality

The warriors grown gray in harness, and white-haired employees still on the job, a scuffed and scarred set of Silvertown Cords on an ancient car, somehow best tells the story of the matchless service of these patriotic tires.

The graceful, well-groomed elegance, with which they when new adorn smart cars, may be shabby; their tough tread worn smooth; but their distinction remains.

Once a Silvertown always a Silvertown. You know them, old or new, for aristocrats.

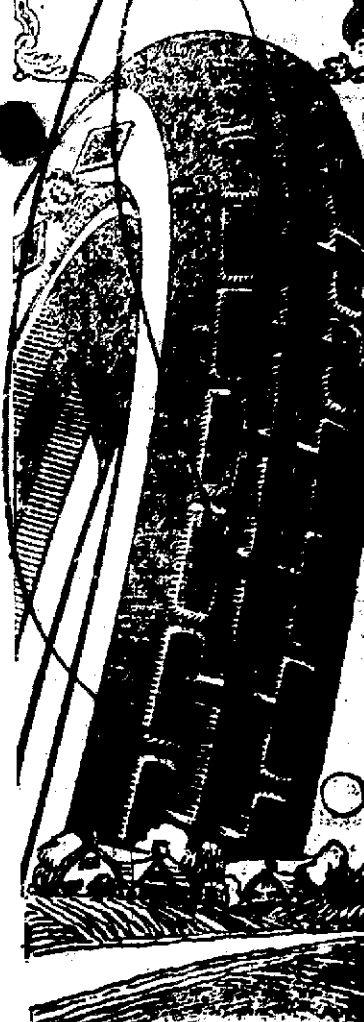

In their age, you read the history of their wonderful endurance; their useful career of miles and miles of road troving.

You always get the long mileage of a ripe old age to round out the youthful beauty of the tires with the Twin Red Diamonds on the sidewall.

HAD THROAT AND STOMACH TROUBLE FOR FIFTEEN YEARS

Mr. Bates tells how he finally got rid of it. Says he's cured.

"I had throat and stomach trouble for 15 years. A dozen doctors gave me no relief. Finally I went to Colorado. I stayed there three months without benefit and came home coughing worse than ever. Then I heard of Milk's Emulsion and commenced taking it. Before I had taken half a bottle, I found it was doing me more good than all the medicine I had ever taken. I continued the use until it cost me sound and well. I have gained 15 pounds, don't cough any more and can eat anything. Thank God I heard of Milk's Emulsion."—John Bates, 172 S. West St., Carbonado, Ill.

Sufferers from indigestion, bloating, flatulence, bad cough and all other ailments of the stomach should try Milk's Emulsion. It costs nothing to try—it is guaranteed. And it has quickly succeeded in thousands of severe cases. Milk's Emulsion is a pleasant, nutritive food and a corrective medicine. It restores healthy, natural bowel action, doing away with all need of pills and physics. It promotes appetite and quickens the digestive organs in shape to assimilate food. As a builder of flesh and strength, Milk's Emulsion is strongly recommended to run-down nervous people, and it has produced amazing results in many cases of asthma, chronic bronchitis and tuberculosis of the lungs. Chronic stomach trouble and constipation are promptly relieved—usually in one day.

This is the only milk emulsion made and sold that it is eaten with a spoon like ice cream. A truly wonderful medicine for sickly children.

No matter how severe your case, you are urged to try Milk's Emulsion under the guarantee—Take six bottles home with you, use it according to directions and if not satisfied with the results, your money will be promptly refunded. Price, one and $1.20 per bottle. The Milk's Emulsion Co., Terre Haute, Ind. Sold and guaranteed by Stewart's Drug Co.

SPORT Togs Come In All Colors of The Rainbow And The Sport Girls Show Them on The Avenues.

HECTIC SHADES ON SKIRTS

BY MARGARET RHOE
(Written for The United Press)

Most stunning togs of every sort for every sport has May; for polo, tennis, motoring, golf, fishing and croquet; for basket ball and swimming, too. But at the end of day, she's changed those togs so many times she's had no time for play.

NEW YORK, May 16.—Some in rags—glad rags; some in tags—large and juicy price tags—and some in velvet coats, the sport girls are coming to town. Most every one knows that the smartest sport togs are worn in town, anyway, strolling down Fifth Avenue rather than through open fields and a swaggy sweater and tricotee skirt are just as much in evidence teeing at the Ritz as teeing on the golf course.

But be that as it may, the newest velvet sport coats that are crowding the ubiquitous sweater for sport supremacy this season are certainly winners. Some are cut on Tuxedo lines, while others affect the belted Norfolk style and both are equally effective.

One stunning belted model in black velvet has a panel collar bound with black braid that ends in two novel pockets, button trimmed at each side of the front. Two buttons embellish the plain tight sleeves and two also fasten the braid trimmed belt. The coat is lined with white silk.

Black satin coats are also smart and wool Jersey Norfolk jackets, in all vivid shades, turn the sweaters pale with envy. Still sweaters are by no means to be cold-shouldered out of the picture. Coat sweaters of silk and wool cling to sporty shoulders and the slip-on ones of wool or silk, either with or without sleeves, have taken on a new angle or two, with a flit weave that opens up new possibilities within its crocheted squares and flit motifs. Vivid and hectic shades of sweaters are still in the running, though guaranteed not to run, yet the pure white sweater or the one black as the Kaiser's conscience are the two chic favorites.

It is the sport skirt that is a perfect riot of color this season—so much so that it is indeed almost necessary for a subdued black velvet or a chaste white sweater to top off such frivolities with a dignified finish.

In tricotee, Georgette satin and Fantasi silks they are tucked and pocketed, pleated and button trimmed. In ball room shades of pink, turquoise, orchid, apricot and Nile green they combine satin stripes upon a Georgette base in a manner to reveal much shapely symmetry.

Hardier, more durable but no less smart, are the skirts of flannel and serge. All white serge skirts show a penchant for many pin tucks bisecting them around and round, with rows of bone buttons, down one side or both and always tucked and buttoned pockets. The tricotee skirts weave their silken charms around fair nether limbs in all colors of the rainbow, but depend rather on their color and material beauty than on trimming and ornate garnishment for the effects.

Flannel and serge skirts are run to large and colorful plaids and wide of color and there are either box or knife pleated. One-toned flannel skirts or pink, Copenhagen or light blue are all tucked up considerably and there is a new crinkly weave silk in all these delicate pastel tones that seems to be quite the newest wrinkle of them all.

In days of old in ancient Greece and Rome, the winning sports were crowned with laurel wreaths, but nowadays in up-to-date New York the sirens of the sport feel that they are winners only when they are crowned with a floppy wide brimmed hat of hectic hues and coarse meshed straw, garlanded, ribbon or fruit-wreath or else a smart, close fitting, shiny black straw sailor, banded in brilliant pecked dotted, Roman striped or Futuristically figured silk.

To be a good little sport these days certainly does require some clothes.

CLARK CHOSEN MINORITY FLOOR LEADER

WASHINGTON, May 17.—Champ Clark, retiring speaker of the House was unanimously chosen minority floor leader by the House Democratic caucus today. Anti-Clark men, however, won a partial victory when the caucus appointed a committee to investigate as to the advisability of the appointment of a steering committee to decide the Democratic policy in the House. The fight against Clark failed to develop because of a compromise reached early today between the two factions.

NO NEW DEVELOPMENT IN PITTSBURGH CAR STRIKE

PITTSBURGH, May 17.—With both sides in the street car wedge standing firm there was little prospect today of an early settlement of the strike with the union car men.

THE ARDARY CASE

he didn't remember such conversation. John M. Bain was called for the purpose of contradicting the testimony of George Ardary regarding what he told Sheriff Gorman about the revolver. The witness corroborated the story told by the Sheriff on the stand.

Sheriff Gorman was recalled and repeated his story regarding George's explanation of the operation of the gun.

Miss Annie Johns, housekeeper at the jail, was called and asked concerning a conversation at the jail between Cora Ardary and Ralph Ardary. The defense objected and asked for an offer at "side bar". The offer was made, Judge Bell overruled the objection and the evidence admitted.

She testified that Cora and Ralph had a conversation at the jail in which Cora said, "Ralph, Lawrence asked to buy the coat every day," and Ralph replied "No, not every day, just occasionally." Then Cora replied, "You said every day and I said every day at the Coroner's inquest, and we will have to stick to that story." She said she was at the refrigerator some six or eight feet distant when she overheard the conversation.

Testimony All In

Cora Ardary was recalled by the defense and denied having a conversation such as that and she never remembered having said anything like that to him. Never suggested to Ralph what he should testify to.

This concluded the testimony both sides announcing their case was closed. It being 11:45 o'clock the noon recess was taken.

DIRIGIBLE IS LOST

ST. JOHNS, N. F., May 16.—The American dirigible C-5 which broke away from its moorings yesterday afternoon and disappeared over the sea, is either on her way to Europe on her own hook, or wrecked beyond hope of salvage.

The United States destroyer Edwards, which put out to sea in pursuit of the runaway dirigible, returned to port today after having scoured the ocean all last night and this forenoon without any trace of the gasbag.
